BANKER FACES UNUSUAL CHARGE

Littlestown Man Must Answer in Court at Lancaster. Libeled Name of Dead Man, it is Said, Now Lives at Honey Brook.

Paul G. Hartman, formerly of Littlestown, is the defendant in a case listed for trial in Lancaster County Court. At a hearing Mr. Hartman, who several years ago resigned his position with a Littlestown banking institution to become cashier of the Honey Brook National Bank, was held for court on the charge of libeling a dead man, G. L. Ramsey, former cashier of the bank. The prosecutor is Mrs. Belle C. Ramsey, of Honey Brook.

The allegations are that the accused wrote on a check which was sent to Mrs. Catherine Witman, of Churchtown, words to the effect that G. L. Ramsey, deceased, the husband of the prosecutor, was an embezzler after he had been found not guilty of the charge in the United States district court, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Witman was paid $100 by the bank, which sum she alleged had been embezzled, and in sending her the check, Hartman wrote on it "for claim in full for embezzlement held against G. L. Ramsey." This is the libel for which Mrs. Ramsey seeks to recover.

The case has upset the western portion of Chester county and the adjoining section of Lancaster says the Philadelphia "North American."

GOOD OPENING OF CHAUTAUQUA

Tent Arrived on Early Train and is Quickly Put in Position. Came here all the way from Virginia. First Day of the Week.

What this afternoon's Chautauqua parade lacked in size it made up in enthusiasm, and the opening of the annual "seven joyous days" was regarded with general gratification by the promoters and "fans".

George A. Taylor, marshal of the parade, with his aides, formed the line on High street and as they marched out to the Prep Campus the Gettysburg Drum Corps took the lead. The boys all wore Chautauqua pennants. A lot of school boys followed, bearing the flags of various states, while a score or more girls with gaily decorated parasols marched with them, and then came the automobiles.

Five suffrage floats with numerous banners bearing the "Votes for Women" inscription composed a part of this division and all of the cars were decorated with the yellow and black of the equal suffrage advocates. The cars were all occupied by local adherents.

A dozen or more other automobiles completed the parade. They contained Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls, some of them in uniform, Chautauqua fans, and guarantors and other interested citizens. The Chautauqua float was again in evidence.

The parade moved out Baltimore and Carlisle streets to the Prep Campus where the formal opening took place. Many persons who had not participated in the parade were already there, awaiting its arrival.

The big tent for the Chautauqua arrived on the Pittsburgh Express this morning at 5:50. It came here from Bedford, Virginia, in charge of a crew of young men who had full charge of its erection and had it in place about noon. The putting up of the large canvas, the placing of the chairs, and the arrangement of the platform, all require a lot of time and the crew had to work rapidly in order to get everything in shape but they succeeded nicely.

The program this afternoon was given by the Dunbar Singers. Dr. George H. Turner, platform superintendent, was in charge of things and the opening address was made by Dr. Charles F. Sanders, president of the local association.

This evening the first part of the program will be given by the entertainers of the afternoon and Chauncey J. Hawkins will give his illustrated lecture on "Bright Eyes and Wild Hearts of Our Northern Woods". The pictures of the afternoon parade will conclude the evening session. After the session there will be a meeting of the guarantors in the big tent.

BIGLERVILLE HAS LARGE RESERVOIR

Capacity of almost Two Million Gallons in Container recently Completed. Modern Construction Methods were Used.

Biglerville's new water reservoir has been completed and is now in active service, providing that town with excellent water and an ample supply. The original facilities were found to be insufficient to safeguard the town in case of fire at a time of long continued drought and the extra size reservoir was accordingly determined upon.

The new container is located on Yellow Hill and is of thoroughly modern construction. It is built of Lehigh Portland cement reinforced with iron and steel. The reservoir is 221 feet long and 171 feet wide while the depth at the breast is sixteen feet. This provides a capacity of 1,936,600 gallons.

The average gravity flow is 86,000 gallons per day and the fall is sufficient to provide Biglerville with ample fire protection without the use of any steam or automobile engine.

The reservoir is owned and operated by the Biglerville Water Company which several years ago laid its mains throughout the town and for a time operated with a smaller reservoir satisfactorily. The demand for the service increased, however, and the fear of a shortage in supply during dry seasons made a larger container necessary with the result that the new reservoir was determined upon. It is now in service and a matter of pride both to the company and the community which it serves.

LICENSE TAGS FOR HUNTERS

County Treasurer Spangler now Issuing the Salmon Colored Badges for this Year. Farm Advisers Receive their Instructions.

Three hundred and twenty five thousand blank hunters' licenses have been sent to the county treasurers of the state for issuance to the hunters of Pennsylvania for this fall. This issue, which is based upon the number of licenses issued in the last two years, is believed to be ample, but the state game commission has prepared for even more. The sale of licenses has been started by county treasurers and many of the salmon-pink tags are already in possession of their owners.

The revenue from the licenses is to be held in a special fund and is to be disbursed for game work only. The commission is now paying bounties for scalps and heads of animals and birds which are a nuisance to the farmers from the revenue of the last eighteen months. This is also furnishing the funds for the establishment of the state game preserves. Several of these have been located in central counties and wires are now being stretched.

The new state commission of agriculture, met Governor Brumbaugh today. He outlined to the commissioners his policy in regard to reorganization of the department, the propagation to advance agriculture, for soil conservation and the general stimulation of increase of the state's food supply. "Agriculture and roads have been the two subjects to which I have given much thought since the bills were disposed of," said the governor a few days ago.

This is taken to mean an elaborate program, extending over a couple of years, for the purpose of getting the next legislature interested.

ATTACK ON U. S. SHIP MISTAKE

Germany Admits Submarine Attacked Nebraskan.

STATEMENT IS ACCEPTED

Berlin Offers Apology in Note to Washington and Agrees to Pay For Damage to Vessel.

Washington, July 16.—The German government has acknowledged that the American steamship Nebraskan was torpedoed by a German submarine, but declares that it was a case of mistaken identity and promises to pay compensation for the damage sustained by American citizens.

The case of the Nebraskan was regarded as one of the most flagrant and wanton acts in violation of neutral rights ever committed by a German submarine.

The vessel, while bound for the United States in ballast—that is, not even carrying contraband to England—was torpedoed at twilight near the Irish coast.

The ship was torn open at the bow, but was able to steam back to Liverpool in safety. An examination of her hull there and the debris found inside convinced American naval experts that she had been torpedoed.

The excuse of the Germans is that no flag or other marks indicating neutral character were discernible on the Nebraskan, and that the submarine commander therefore assumed that it was a British vessel. Berlin declares its readiness to make compensation for the damage thereby sustained by Americans.

There is no doubt that this statement will be accepted by the United States government. It is a fact, however, that officials in Washington do not consider the action of the German submarine commander justified by the circumstances.

It was established at the time that the flag was hauled down just five minutes before the attack was delivered, but this did not, it is asserted, justify the action of the German commander in assuming that it must be a British vessel and attacking without any investigation.

Though the Germans declare themselves ready to pay compensation, it is expected in Washington that it will prove quite as difficult to get it in this case as it proved in the Frye case. The two governments are hopelessly entangled over the method of procedure in the Frye case, the Germans insisting that case must go to the prize court, while the United States declares that, Germany having admitted violating the treaty rights of the United States, the prize court has no jurisdiction, and that all that remains is for the governments to agree on the amount due. It is believed in Washington that similar difficulties are likely to arise in the Nebraskan case.

Want Higher Pay and Shorter Hours at Germany's Munition Plant. Geneva, July 16.—A report has just reached Basel that a big strike is threatened at the Krupp works at Essen, Germany, the movement being headed by the Union of Metallurgical Workmen and the Association of Mechanics.

The unions demand higher wages, because of the cost of living, and shorter hours because of the great strain under which they work, the report says. The workmen, according to these advances, are in an angry mood and threaten the destruction of machinery unless their demands are granted immediately, as they have been put off three months with promises.

Denies Submarine Charge. German Craft Did Not Use American Ship as Shield. Washington, July 16.—Denial of published reports that a German submarine used the American bark Normandy as a screen from which to sink the Russian steamship Leo was cabled to the state department by the American consul at Liverpool.

The captain of the Normandy denied the report. The bark was stopped by the submarine, but permitted to proceed with some of the Leo's crew.

Austrians to Quit Trieste. Zurich, July 16.—The council of Austro-Hungarian ministers held in Vienna lasted eleven hours. The envoys discussed problems of the commissariat and other war matters. It is announced that the tribunals of Trieste will be provisionally transferred to Gratz. All prisoners in Trieste will be removed to Gratz also.

Lemberg City of Death. Petrograd, July 16.—All the enemy troops have been withdrawn from Lemberg, owing to a terrible epidemic of cholera raging there. Refugees are pouring into Russian territory. The population of Galicia is starving because the enemy requisitioned everything, and all who can are escaping through the enemy's lines into Russia.

One Monograph Lost to Literature. "The other day," said Berry M. Aull, Chiggerbite's popular undertaker, "I sat down to write a monograph on the Futility of Everything. It was a great thought—it thrilled me. But mine is a sternly logical mind. The more the truth of my great theme came home to me, the more clear it became that I would have to give up writing the monograph. For writing also is futile."

Russia Admits Reverse.

London, July 16.—Near Lomza the Russians report that the enemy succeeded in capturing trenches along the front of a mile and a third. This ground was retaken, Petrograd reports, in a counter attack.

The Russians admit, however, that in the valley of the Shikva they have retreated to their second line of positions. They announce a new attack by the Teutonic forces on the Narew front.

Pennsylvania Governor Will Give Hydro-Aeroplane to Militia.

New York, July 16.—Governor Brumbaugh, of Pennsylvania, offered a hydro-aeroplane to First Lieutenant Thomas F. Meaney, N. G. N. J., private secretary to Naval Officer H. O. Wittmann, who is organizing an aeroplane squadron which he hopes to have attached to the national guard of New Jersey.

In his letter offering the hydro-aeroplane, Brumbaugh said that inasmuch as Pennsylvania has no aerodrome and the national guard of his state may never have one, he would be glad to make the gift. A telegram of acceptance was immediately forwarded.

150,000 WELSH MINERS STRIKE

Virtually All Mines Closed and Naval Supply Cut Off.

THREAT OF FINES DEFIED

British Admiralty Takes Drastic Action—Union Leaders Urge Men to Accept Arbitration.

London, July 16.—The British admiralty has taken over all of the reserve supplies of coal.

This action followed the strike situation in the Welsh fields, where virtually every mine in Wales is now idle.

The manifestations in that section where the miners have defied the British government's proclamation that the provisions of the munitions act would be invoked, and refused to work the mines, presents one of the most serious problems since the start of the war, but the action of the government in placing all of the mines under the direction of the admiralty may solve the problem.

More than 150,000 men have laid down their tools, thereby shutting down virtually all the mines in the Welsh coal fields, which supply the steaming coal for the British navy.

A dispatch from Cardiff to the Central News agency says that the miners' conference by a vote of 180 to 112, decided not to accept the recommendation of their council and return to work.

Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, telegraphed to the conference that he was prepared to meet the delegates in London this evening. The assumption is that the purpose of the meeting is to resume negotiations looking to a settlement of the dispute.

The British government, using for the first time the authority granted by the so-called munitions act, ruled that the miners must not strike, a proclamation to this effect having been issued. The miners' answer to this proclamation was to go on strike.

Though subject to a heavy daily fine for striking, and though urged by their leaders to allow their demands for higher pay to be arbitrated, the miners threw aside all advice and refused to take up their picks, thus not only stopping the mines, but leaving idle the mine railways and some ships engaged in coal transport.

Theoretically the government is empowered to check the strike forth with, but it is a puzzling problem how the fines authorized under the munitions act are to be enforced.

Men who strike in the face of the government prohibition are subject to a fine of $15 a day, in default of which they may be imprisoned.

BEEES KILL FIVE DOGS

Four Persons Painfully Wounded Trying to Drive Them Off.

Peekskill, N. Y., July 16.—Four persons suffered painful wounds and five valuable hounds were killed by a swarm of bees which set upon the hounds in the yard of Leslie Low here. When one of the hounds attacked the hive the queen bee lighted upon it. Swarms of other bees joined her in the attack and soon the five hounds were being pitifully.

Leslie Low, Jr., tried to drive the bees away with a blanket, but they turned upon him. His cries brought his father and mother and a neighbor, who routed the bees with brooms, but not until they had all been stung several times and the five hounds killed.

GRAIN ELEVATOR WRECKED

New York Police Suspect Bomb May Have Caused Explosion.

New York, July 16.—An explosion wrecked the big grain elevator in Weehawken, across the Hudson river from New York, and severely injured a half dozen workmen.

The elevator, constructed of steel and concrete, belongs to the West Shore Railroad company, and it is said the damage will be heavy. The whole upper part of the elevator was torn away.

The police immediately began an investigation to determine whether an explosion of grain dust or a bomb caused the damage. The elevator has been handling much grain for export to Europe since the war began.

AMBASSADOR DUMBA.

Bryan Says Austrian Envoy's Statement Was Misquoted.

STOP ARMS EXPORTS, AUSTRIA ASKS OF U. S.

Claims War Trade With Allies Violates Neutrality.

London, July 16.—According to an Amsterdam dispatch to Reuter's Telegram company, it is stated from Vienna that the Austro-Hungarian minister of foreign affairs sent a note to the American ambassador at Vienna on June 29, drawing attention to the fact that commercial business in war material on a great scale is proceeding between the United States and Great Britain and her allies, while Austria-Hungary and Germany are completely cut off from the American market.

It is set forth in the note that this subject has occupied the government of the dual monarchy from the very beginning, and although the government is convinced the American attitude arises from no other intention than to observe the strictest neutrality and international agreements, yet "the question arises whether conditions as they have developed during the course of the war, certainly independent of the wish of the American government, are not of such a kind in their effect as to turn the intentions of the Washington cabinet in a contrary direction."

ALLIES TAKE TURKISH LINES

Anglo-French Forces Capture Strongly Defended Positions.

London, July 16.—Two strongly held Turkish lines defending the Dardanelles have been captured by the Anglo-French forces on the Gallipoli peninsula, according to an announcement given out by the British official press bureau.

"The allies on Monday made rear assaults on the Turkish positions on the Gallipoli peninsula," says a dispatch to the Daily Express from Athens. "They finally occupied two hills defending Krithia and took 4000 Turkish prisoners."

BRITISH ARMY IN SERBIA

Rumor That English Are on Austria Front Officially Confirmed.

Liverpool, July 16.—That British troops are now in Serbia fighting with the Serbians against the Austro-Hungarians, was given official confirmation by Crawford Price, the British "eye-witness" with the Serbian forces.

Lecturing in Liverpool, he said the British army authorities now permitted him to make this announcement, thus confirming what has been often rumored, but never officially substantiated.

The strength of the British forces in Serbia was not stated by the lecturer.

Mother Gone; Child Dying.

Bernville, July 16.—Sadie, wife of Hermann Schoolcraft Weissmann, left her home for parts unknown two weeks ago, and now the husband has appealed to County Detective Straub to make strenuous efforts to locate the wife and mother because their five-year-old and only child, Francesca Ferrer, is dying.

Use Dynamite to Check Alaska Fire. Valdez, Alaska, July 16.—Fire destroyed the business section of Valdez, inflicting a loss of $500,000. United States troops from Fort Liscomb aided in checking the flames with dynamite. No rain had fallen for weeks and the wooden buildings were dry as tinder.

Airmen Kill Seven Officers. Amsterdam, July 16.—British aviators destroyed a German ammunition depot near Rollegencapelle. Seven bombs were dropped upon the casino at Mein, killing seven German officers.

Killed by Mowing Machine. Lancaster, Pa., July 16.—John B. Adair was killed in Penn township when the horses ran away while he was harvesting. Adair was mangled by the knives.

HANOVER GETS LAST OF SERIES

Many Misplays Figured in Defeat of Patriots who Died Hard. Each Team Used Two Pitchers. Score See-Sawed Back and Forth.

Shades of the Sunday School League! Twenty four hits, six errors, four pitchers, six bases on balls, and eighteen left on base—all these were included in the nine innings between Hanover and Gettysburg Thursday afternoon with which the Hornets got away 7 to 6.

When the fans got together to figure out just why we didn't win, some said it was because the first and second innings went by with three on and no one to produce the necessary hit, others said it was because Newton let Miller's grounder go straight through him, some said it was because Plank allowed Greenwell to stay on the mound too long, while others could not overlook the fact that Herril cut third in his eagerness to get home and robbed himself of the tying run.

Hanover scored their total of seven runs in two innings. In the first Crawford was safe on second on Bigler's bad throw, was sacrificed by Starr and scored on Newton's slow fielding of Clunk's grounder. Clunk was sacrificed by Stroh, and Sherman hit safely. Both scored on Eline's three bagger and Eline scored on Grotey's hit. Four runs. In the sixth Eline got a hit, was sacrificed by Grotey and Hostetter drew a pass. Eline scored when Miller sent one between Newton's legs, the second baseman missing an excellent chance for an easy double play. Crawford scored Hostetter with a two bagger, and Starr's hit scored Miller. Crawford being caught at the plate. Then Starr replaced Greenwell and held the visitors safe for the remainder of the game.

Gettysburg scored one in the second when Oyler's single went through Clunk for three, and he scored on Jarosick's hit. Greenwell got another and Bigler was safe on a hunt. The bases were full with no one out but local rooters are superstitious about that condition, from past experience, and as usual nothing happened. Jarosick was forced at the plate by Newton. Mahaffie fouled out, and Herril flied out.

In the third Basehoar got a pass. Deal was safe at first on Grotey's error, both were sacrificed a base by Oyler and scored on Jarosick's three bagger. Bigler's hit scored Jarosick. Hostetter's hard stop of Newton's grounder ended the inning. Mahaffie scored in the fourth on his three bagger and Grotey's error.

Gettysburg's chance to tie was thrown away in the sixth. Mahaffie and Herril were safe on Eline's slow fielding and both completed the circuit on Deal's three bagger. Herril was discovered cutting third and the tying run did not count.

YOUNG FOLKS' CORNER

For a Birthday Party.

If any one thinks of giving a birthday party here are some suggestions that may aid. This is an entertainment that may be given indoors or out. If you can get flowered paper send your invitations out on that. Inclose in each envelope, neatly printed, the following list of birth flowers and ask each guest to wear the flower belonging to his or her birth month and to state in the acceptance what flower represents this month: January, snow drop; February, primrose; March, violet; April, daisy; May, hawthorn; June, rose; July, poppy; August, waterlily; September, goldenrod; October, aster; November, chrysanthemum; December, holly.

In this way you can provide a boutonniere for each boy and a wreath for each girl of her or his birth flowers. These need not necessarily be fresh; they can be just paper flowers and give the same pretty and colorful effect.

After the last guest has arrived bags made of crepe paper may be passed around, and the company may be told to hunt everywhere for slips of paper bearing the names of birth flowers, but to claim only their own. This is great fun indoors or out. A full quarter of an hour or even longer should be allowed for the hunt. When the time has expired the hostess should blow a whistle to summon the hunters; the slips should be counted, and the lucky boy or girl who has gathered most should be presented with rose decorated boxes of chocolates.

Partners for refreshments may be chosen by selecting artificial flowers from a jardiniere. Two flowers of each kind must, of course, be placed in the jardiniere.

A Portrait Party.

Get common wrapping paper, a light brown or white, and cut into squares a foot and a half each way. Put up a sheet across a door, and have the light from a lamp arranged so that the shadow of a person's head will be reflected on the square of paper.

A guest is to be placed sideways so that the outline of the face will show on the paper. With a heavy pencil or a crayon draw the outline or profile. One guest at a time is brought into the gallery, and the name is put on the back of the portrait.

When all have been taken an assistant helps out on the silhouettes, which are pasted on black paper and pinned up like a portrait exhibition. The guests are provided with pencils and paper and write down who they think is who.

A prize is provided for the one who guesses the most correctly, and, if the hostess wishes, a consolation prize may be awarded.

CARRANZA SEEKS U. S. RECOGNITION

Will Establish Government De-serving Support.

Vera Cruz, July 16.—Asserting that the Constitutionalist are trying to establish in Mexico a government along the lines advocated by Thomas Jefferson, and comparing President Wilson to Jefferson, Venustiano Carranza, first chief of the Constitutionalist, has given an extended interview, that is regarded as a bid for recognition by the United States.

Carranza pointed to the reconquest of Mexico City by the Constitutionalist and his plan for an orderly government there, as the basis for American support.

"We feel that we are entitled to the sympathy of the American government in all we are trying to do," said Carranza. "We have such faith in the democratic purpose of President Wilson that we are confident he will give to the Constitutionalist party his entire support."

"Mexico City, of course, will be the seat of our government, and all national official activities will be transferred at the earliest moment. Every thing possible will be done to transform Mexico City into a peaceful, orderly and businesslike community."

General Carranza said that in due course he would call an election for congressmen, that he would make a report to the congress, and that congress would issue a call for an election of a president to supersede the provisional government. The new government, he added, would grant amnesty to all persons except those guilty of crime.

Another Setback For Becker.

New York, July 16.—Another effort by Charles Becker, the former police lieutenant, convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, has failed. Chief Justice Bartlett, of the court of appeals, has rejected an appeal from Becker's counsel to intervene in the condemned man's behalf.

German Spy Executed.

London, July 16.—Robert Rosenthal, the self-confessed spy, who was arrested with an American passport in his possession, was executed at the Tower of London. He faced the firing squad bravely.

Medical Advertising THOUGHT HE HAD CHRONIC DYSPESPIA

But Now Eats Corned Beef, Cabbage, Pork, Onions and Mince Pie for Dinner and Never Feels a Pain.

Do you belong to the "No thank you" society of the dinner table where the mere sight of certain foods makes you feel that pain you know would be yours if you ever ate them?

What a weak, easily upset stomach really needs is not a digestive aid but a stomach strengthener. Any reliable physician will tell you it's dangerous to continually dose the stomach with pepsin digesters and the like. His own prescription will act on the stomach instead. No physician ever wrote a better stomach prescription than that embodied in the famous M-I-O-N-A Stomach Tablets that People's Drug Store and most every other druggist in this vicinity sells with the positive guarantee that they must put a complete and lasting end to stomach misery or money back. M-I-O-N-A strengthens the walls and muscular fibres of the stomach and induces prompt normal working of your own stomach machinery. It gives relief in ten minutes to all the common and uncomfortable symptoms of sour rising, gas, belching, burning, bloating, shooting pains, etc., and in a few weeks will put the stomach in such a clear and perfectly healthy condition that it can digest a typical New England boiled dinner without the slightest effort or distress.

CROWN PRINCE DRIVES AT VERDUN

Regains Position Lost During French Counter Attack.

LOSSES SAID TO BE HEAVY

German, Berlin Announces, Have Taken 68 Officers and 3688 Men Prisoners in That Region.

London, July 16.—The army of the German crown prince has succeeded in regaining some of the ground in the Argonne forest, recovered by the French in their rally against the German drive which is directed at the great French stronghold of Verdun.

The Germans, after several attacks, got a foothold in a clump of woods to the west of the forest. Paris reports the capture of German trenches in the region north of Arras.

Berlin announces continued success for the Germans. In the Argonne, it is stated, they have repulsed French attacks, their prisoners now numbering sixty-eight officers and 3688 men.
The French losses in killed and wounded are said to have been extraordinarily heavy.

The German attack has for its object the investment of the forts of the Verdun area and the incidental cutting of the Verdun-Paris railway, which runs through St. Menebould, and to relieve the pressure on the St.
Mihiel wedge.

This is the second time in three weeks that a victory has been ascribed to the crown prince. These quick thrusts are asserted in Berlin to be proving effective in carrying out the German plan to hem in Verdun.

According to a dispatch from Amsterdam, the allies have learned from German prisoners that the attacks of the Germans in the Argonne were launched with the purpose of taking the crown prince's army into Paris on July 14, the French national holiday.
On the other hand, Berlin heard that the French attacks were intended to celebrate the same day by an important advance.

When dawn broke Tuesday in the Argonne the Germans were in possession of a mile of trenches northeast of Vienne le Chateau, which twenty-four hours previously had been occupied by the French.

Across this front the German troops under the crown prince had charged with might and main, the impetus of their first assault carrying them over the heavily entrenched ground until they had penetrated far into the French fortifications.

But there the assault was stopped.
The French troops, gathering energy out of their defeat of the night before, pressed into the German lines west of the road from Binarville to Vienne le Chateau.

At the same time another section of the French troops charged from their trenches and penetrated for some distance into the German positions west of the Argonne forest.

So, in a measure, the German gain of Tuesday was counterbalanced by the French. The Paris official statement did not mention the extent of the French gains. This was taken to indicate that they were not very extensive.

NO PEACE POSSIBLE NOW

Britain Would Not Consider Terms at This Time, Says Asquith.

London, July 16.—Britain will not have peace at this time, Premier Asquith announced in parliament that the government refuses to take any steps toward finding out upon what terms Germany will make peace.

Under Secretary of War H. J. Tennant said the official statement of July 16, that the allies had not used poisonous gases, referred only to the Dardanelles theater of war.

"It would not be to the public interest to say whether we have used gases elsewhere," said Mr. Tennant.

Premier Asquith intimated that the defenses of the realm act would be applied to newspapers which are continually attacking the government.

It was announced that a majority of the prisoners sentenced to hard labor in British jails are now engaged in munitions work for the government.

Pose Lynches Two Negroes.

Cochran, Ga., July 16.—Two negroes who were suspected of having aided Peter Jackson, who was lynched for the murder of three white men near here on Tuesday night, were lynched near Hawkinsville, by a posse of citizens. One of the negroes lynched was Jackson's brother.

Scranton Bars Mormons.

Scranton, Pa., July 16.—Two young women, Misses Sylvia Barlow and Josie Jensen, Mormon missionaries from New York, called on Mayor E. B.
Jermyn for permission to preach the doctrines of Mormonism on the city streets. Their request was refused.

Judge Rice Critically Ill.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 15.—President Judge Charles E. Rice, of the state superior court, who has been ill at his home here, suffered a relapse.
His physicians announce that his condition is critical.

Easy To Darken
Your Gray Hair
You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea
and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Dark Hollow

By Anna Katharine Green
Illustrations by C. D. Rhodes
COPYRIGHT 1914 by DODD, MEAD & COMPANY

For in the faces of the small crowd which blocked the doorway I detected nothing but commiseration; and when a voice spoke and I heard Oliver's accents surcharged with nothing more grievous than pity, I realized that my secret was as yet unshared, and, seeing that no man suspected me, I fore-bore to declare my guilt to anyone.

This sudden restoration from soundless depths into the pure air of respect and sympathy confused me; and beyond the words "Killed! Struck down by the bridge!" I heard little, till slowly, dully, like the call of a bell issuing from a smothering mist, I caught the sound of a name. It struck my ear and gradually it dawned upon my consciousness that another man had been arrested for my crime and that the safety, the reverence and the commiseration that were so dear to me had been bought at a price no man of honor might pay.

But I was no longer a man of honor.
I was a wretched criminal swaying above a gulf of infamy in which I had seen others swallowed but had never dreamed of being engulfed myself. I never thought of letting myself go—not at this crisis—not while my heart was warm with its resurgence into the old life.

And so I let pass this opportunity for confession. Afterwards it was too late—or seemed too late to my demoralized judgment.

My first real awakening to the extraordinary horrors of my position was when I realized that circumstances were likely to force me into presiding over the trial of the man Scoville. I feigned sickness, only to realize that my place would be taken by Judge Grosvenor, a notoriously prejudiced man. If he sat, it would go hard with the prisoner, and I wanted the prisoner acquitted. I had no grudge against John Scoville. Of course I wanted to save him, and if the only help I could now give him was to sit as judge upon his case, then would I sit as judge whatever mental torture it involved.

Sending for Mr. Black, I asked him point blank whether in face of the circumstance that the victim of this murder was my best friend, he would not prefer to plead his case before Judge Grosvenor. He answered no; that he had more confidence in my equity even under these circumstances than in that of my able, but headstrong colleague, and prayed me to get well. He did not say that he expected me on this very account to show even more favor toward his client than I might otherwise have done, but I am sure that he meant it, and, taking his attitude as an omen, I obeyed his intuition and was soon well enough to take my seat upon the bench.

What men saw facing them from the bench was an automaton wound up to do so much work each day. The real Ostrander was not there, but stood, an unseen presence at the bar, undergoing trial side by side with John Scoville, for a crime to make angels weep and humanity hide its head: hypocrisy!

But the days went by and the inexorable hour drew nigh for the accused man's release or condemnation. Circumstances were against him—so was his bearing, which I alone understood.
If, as all felt, it was that of a guilty man, it was so because he had been guilty in intent if not in fact. He had meant to attack Algernon Etheridge.

He had run down the ravine for that purpose, knowing my old friend's whistle and envying him his watch.
Or why his foolish story of having left his stick behind him? But the sound of my approaching steps higher up on the path had stopped him in midcareer and sent him rushing up the slope ahead of me. When he came back after a short circuit of the fields beyond, it was to find his crime forestalled and by the very weapon he had thrown into the Hollow as he went scurrying by. He had meant to attack Etheridge. It was the shock of the discovery of the body, heightened by the use he made of it to secure the booty thus thrown in his way without crime, which gave him the hang-dog look we all noted.

That there were other reasons—that the place recalled another scene of brutality in which intention had been followed by act, I did not then know.
It was sufficient to me then that my safety was secured by his own guilty consciousness and the precautions into which it led him. Instead of owning up to the encounter he had so barely, escaped he confined himself to the simple declaration of having heard voices somewhere near the bridge, which to all who know the ravine appeared impossible under the conditions named.

Yet, for all the incongruities and the failure of his counsel to produce any definite impression by the prisoner's persistent denial of having whistled the stick or even of having carried it into Dark Hollow, I expected a verdict in his favor. Indeed, I was so confident of it that I suffered less during the absence of the jury than at any other time, and when they returned, with an air of solemn decision which proclaimed unanimity of mind and a ready verdict, I was so prepared for his acquittal that for the first time since the opening of the trial I felt myself a being of flesh and blood, with human sentiments and hopes.
And it was: "Guilty!"

When I awoke to a full realization of what this entailed (for I must have lost consciousness for a minute, though no one seemed to notice), the one fact staring me in the face was that it would devolve upon me to pronounce his sentence; upon me, Archibald Ostrander, an automaton no longer, but a man realizing to the full his part in this miscarriage of justice. Chaos confronted me, and in contemplation of it, I fell ill.

Somehow, strange as it may appear,
I had thought little of this possibility previous to this moment. I found myself upon the brink of this new gulf before the dizziness of my escape from the other had fully passed. Do you wonder that I recoiled, sought to gain time, put off delivering the sentence from day to day? I had sinned—sinned irredeemably—but there are depths of infamy beyond which a man cannot go. I had reached that point.

What saved me? A new discovery, and the loving sympathy of my son Oliver. One night—a momentous one to me—he came to my room and, closing the door behind him, stood with his back to it, contemplating me in a way that startled me.

What had happened? What lay behind this new and penetrating look, this anxious and yet persistent manner? I dared not think. I dared not yield to the terror which must follow thought. Terror blanches the cheek and my cheek must never blanch under anybody's scrutiny. Never, never, so long as I lived.

"Father"—the tone quieted me, for I knew from its gentleness that he was hesitating to speak more on his own account than on mine—"you are not looking well; this thing worries you.
I hate to see you like this. Is it just the loss of your old friend, or—"

He faltered, not knowing how to proceed.

"Sometimes I think," he recommenced, "that you don't feel quite sure of this man Scoville's guilt. Is that so? Tell me, father?"

I did not know what to make of him.
There was no shrinking from me; no conscious or unconscious accusation in voice or look, but there was a desire to know, and a certain latent resolve behind it all that marked the line between obedient boyhood and thinking, determining man. With all my dread—a dread so great I felt the first grasp of age upon my heartstrings at that moment—I recognized no other course than to meet this inquiry of his with the truth—that is,
with just so much of the truth as was needed. No more, not one jot more.
I therefore answered, and with a show of self-possession at which I now wonder:

"You are not far from right, Oliver.
I have had moments of doubt. The evidence, as you must have noticed, is purely circumstantial."

"What evidence would satisfy you?
What would you consider a conclusive proof of guilt?"

I told him in the set phrases of my profession.

"Then," he declared as I finished,
"you may rest easy as to this man's right to receive a sentence of death."
I could not trust my ears.

"I know from personal observation," he proceeded, approaching me with a firm step, "that he is not only capable of the crime for which he has been convicted, but that he has actually committed the crime under circumstances, and possibly for the same end."

And he told me the story of that night of storm and bloodshed—a story which will be found lying near this,
in my alcove of shame and contrition.
It had an overwhelming effect upon me. I had been very near death. Su-

I Suffered as Only Cowards Suffer.

cide must have ended the struggle in which I was engaged, had not this knowledge of actual and unpunished crime come to ease my conscience.
John Scoville was worthy of death, and, being so, should receive the full reward of his deed. I need hesitate no longer.

That night I slept. But there came a night when I did not. After the penalty had been paid and to most men's eyes that episode was over, I turned the first page of that volume of slow retribution which is the doom of the man who sins from impulse, and has the recoil of his own nature to face relentlessly to the end of his days.
Scoville was in his grave. I was alive.
Scoville had shot a man for his money.
I had struck a man down in my wrath.
Scoville's widow and little child must face a cold and unsympathetic world, with small means and disgrace rising, like a wall, between them and social sympathy, if not between them and the actual means of living.

Oliver's future faced him untouched.
No shadow lay across his path to hinder his happiness or to mar his chances.
